Good Morning and Great Day...

WHAT HAVE YOU BEEN SAYING NO TO?

Do you immediately discount something before you have even gone within and checked with your heart to see if what is trying to emerge is in fact something that will serve you and the highest good of all?

Is NO a force of habit.

Do you assume the NO position as a means of avoiding conflict and therefore missing great opportunities to allow something other than the little small voice within you to speak louder about the real truth of who you are?

When you allow assumptions to make choices for you those choices are not centered in the absolute divine wisdom and intelligence that is always looking to support you.

You could be missing out on the greatest discovery of all by immediately saying no

If you would just give yourself the freedom, the permission to say yes even though the yes would mean taking a leap of faith a whole new way of seeing and living your life could emerge.

There is a perfect and magnificent order to the universe that always governs our every decision and will always move us in the perfect direction towards our intended desire.

In order for this infinite intelligence to operate through us we must be open to possibilities that sometimes may look and seem uncomfortable. The secret is to work through any sense of being uncomfortable by giving yourself permission to feel the feelings and emotions that come with exploring new experiences in your life.

WHAT HAVE YOU BEEN SAYING NO TO?

Ask yourself this question everyday

It will keep fully aware and present to the present moment where all your creativity resides.

Keep stretching yourself in ways that are unfamiliar so that you can become more familiar to the awesome genius inside of you. Unleash the brilliance that is part of your DNA in every way so that each day is an awesome journey. Never give up on something because it doesn't look like you think it should.

NO is a powerful word use it wisely and when you do the mighty power of the Sacred Yes will guide you to a destination that is always in harmony with the calling of your heart.

"Believing the first thing that appears in the garden of your mind may not always be the truth...ask great questions so that you may get great answers and feel into the consciousness that everything is possible for YOU"

I AM in perfect harmony with the wisdom of my soul
With an open heart I listen to the infinite essence of divine intelligence
I know that the perfect yes that guides my vision
Will always serve my highest good
I AM seeker of unlimited opportunities
I see clearly because I have certainty of mind
I AM a perfect expression of absolute Perfection,
Excellence, Magnificence and Brilliance!

It's your day... MAKE IT A GREAT ONE!
